BUCYRUS HIGH SCHOOL

"Our Boys and Girls First"

FOREWORD

The main object of this annual, besides its literary and artistic value, is to give a true conception of High School life in B. H. S. As the years go by this will become a more valued possession to you as it will fill in the blanks time makes in your memory. If a reinspection of these pages should enable you to remember your old school days along with your chums of years gone by then our efforts have not been in vain. We hope that we have published an annual that will come up to all expectations, and have proven ourselves worthy of the honor and responsibility that was placed upon us.

Woodrow Wilson

It is to the perpetuation of the memory of Woodrow Wilson, who was one, if not the greatest, of the Presidents of our country, that we, the class of 1924 dedicate this page. Our class is glad to present to the High School an autographed photograph obtained shortly before his death.

Woodrow Wilson, the twenty-eighth President of the United States was born at Staunton, Virginia, December 28, 1856.

He was carefully trained in boyhood by his father, a Presbyterian minister. Then after attending Davidson College in North Carolina, for a short time, he went to Princeton, graduating in the class of 1879.

He studied law for a time at the University of Virginia and practiced for about a year at Atlanta, Georgia. He disliked the ordinary kind of law practice that was available for a beginner in a southern town, so he decided to pursue an academic career.

In preparation for a professorship, Mr. Wilson entered Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore in the fall of 1883, as a post-graduate of history and political science. While at this University he wrote his first book entitled "Congressional Government."

After leaving Johns Hopkins he taught for three years at Bryn Mawr and then taught for two years at Wesleyan University in Connecticut.

Finally in 1890 he was chosen professor of jurisprudence and political economy at Princeton, his Alma Mater. He was very popular as a professor and in 1902 he was elected president of the institution.

His Princeton presidency ended with his acceptance of the nomination for Governor of New Jersey in 1910.

Two years later he accepted the highest honor this nation can bestow upon its citizens—that of President. When the war broke out in 1914, although his sympathies were with the Allies, in conformity with the principles of international law, he saw no proper position for the United States but strict neutrality.

Again in 1916, he was elected President. The slogan: "He kept us out of war" gained for him the support of the Northwest. It was not until war was inevitable that he led the nation into it.

In reality he sacrificed his life to his country. The worries and cares that the Presidential office offers proved too much for him and he suffered a nervous breakdown near the close of his second term.

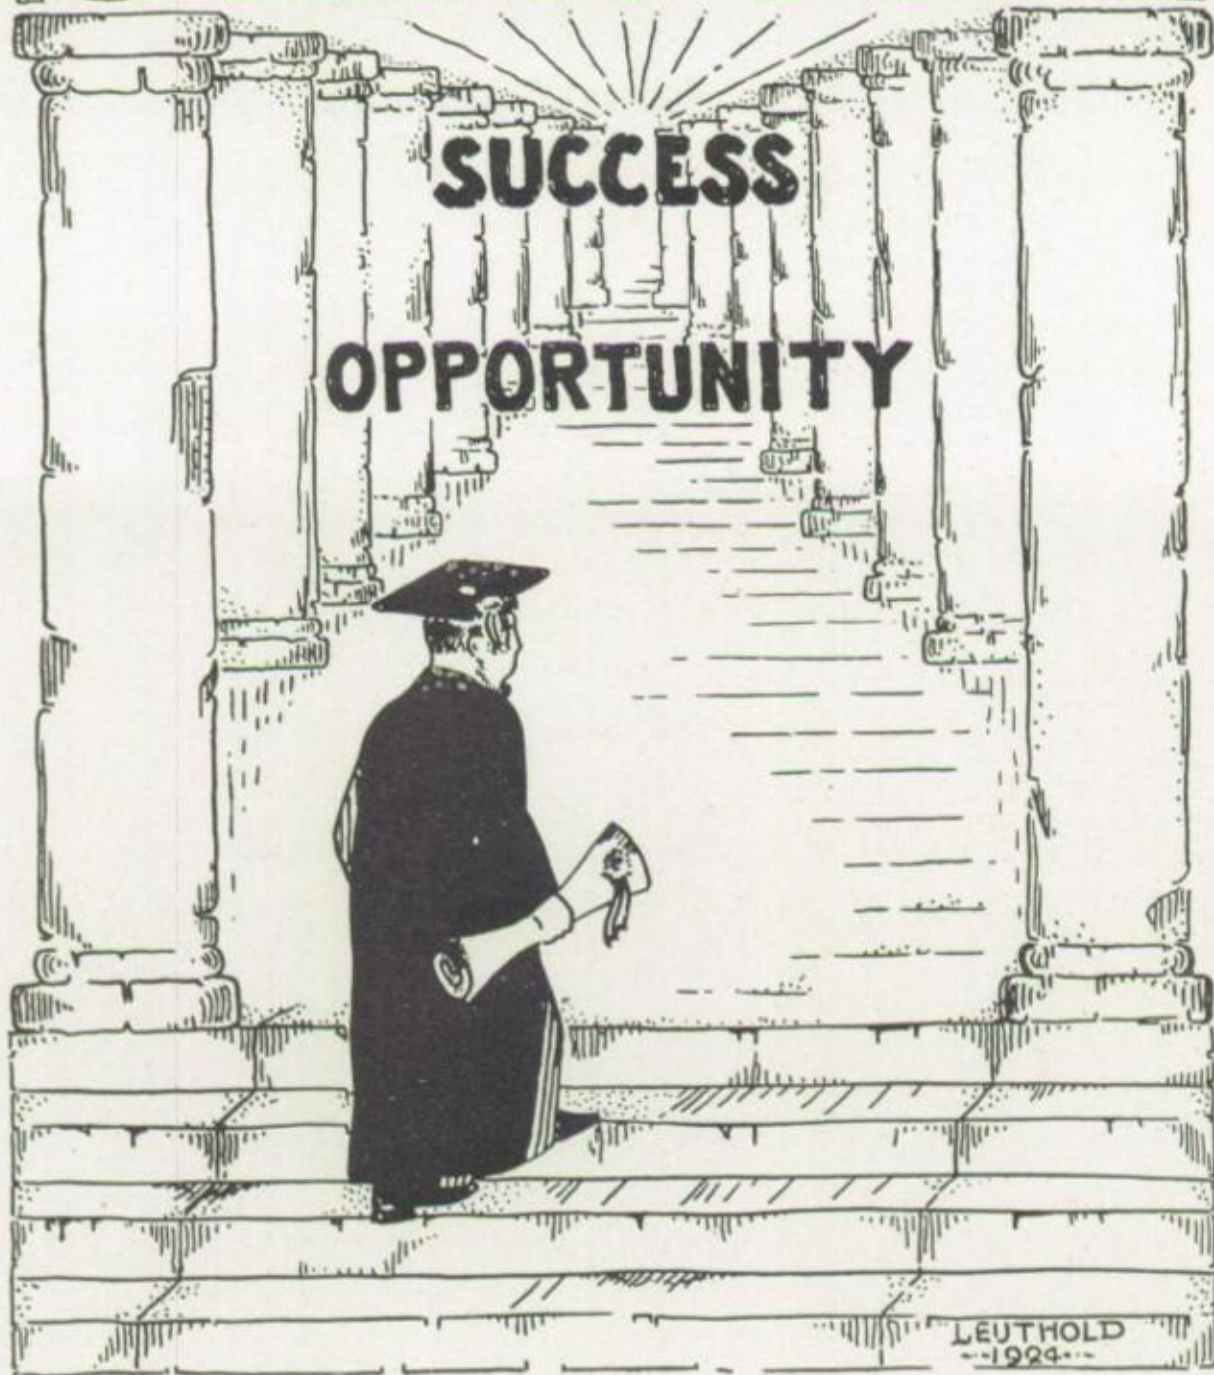

Handing the reins of office over to his successor he retired to a quiet home on S. Street in Washington and it was here that he died, the 3rd of February, 1924.

The world is still studying the character and career of George Washington. We, in America are just now, more than ever before, learning to appreciate the qualities of Abraham Lincoln, and the world is only beginning to pay him homage as the greatest political leader of modern times, although his death occurred almost fifty years ago. The tendency of history is now to glorify Washington and Lincoln. Woodrow Wilson passes into history subject to discussion of his works, but distinguished statesmen declare that his fame is secure and his belief in permanent peace will inspire his successors.

Senior Class History

Haven't we been anticipating for four years this time when we should graduate from B. H. S. as the "staid old Seniors"—anticipating it ever since we were welcomed into chapel by the upper-classmen as the "green little Freshies"? But we failed to prove ourselves worthy of that name.

The officers for our Freshman year were: President, Harold Smith; Vice President, Bertha Schaber; Secretary, Nina Lust; Treasurer, Carl Roberts, and Harlan Stuckman for Student Council. As our class colors we chose red and black, and the poppy for the class flower. These have remained our choice. Social activities were soon commenced and the class gave its first party which was soon followed by a hay-ride.

In the inter-class basketball contest we defeated Junior Hi and Sophomores. Although we failed to win the championship, the "Freshies" held third place. The girls' team was the victor in both a game with the Junior Hi and a practice game with the Sophomores. One great achievement of the year was the winning of the baseball championship.

In September, 1921, when we returned to school, we had the privilege of entering the new building. We feel glad to admit that we had passed the "baby stage" and could now be distinguished as Sophomores. Carl Roberts was elected as President; Evelyn Schieber, Vice-President; Helen Wheeler, Secretary, and James Foulke as Treasurer. Our second representative in the Student Council was Fred Greenwich.

The class had a commendable showing in athletics. Three members made the varsity football team, and the class basketball squad gained distinction by winning the loving cup as the champions in the inter-class basketball tournament. There were also several members of Class '24 enrolled in the Hi Y Club.

Being now well launched on our High School career, as Juniors, we surpassed our accomplishments of former years. We were organized under the leadership of Carl Roberts, President; Mabel Klein, Vice-President; Bertha Schaber, Secretary; Charles Allen, Treasurer, and Elizabeth MacDonald on the Student Council.

Half of the positions on the varsity football team were filled by Juniors and those on the basketball and baseball teams are deserving of much credit. The girls claimed four members on the basketball team, not to be excelled by the boys. Again we received the loving cup in recognition of winning the inter-class basketball tournament.

The enrollment in the Hi Y and E. T. Clubs was augmented by the number of Juniors who became members of these organizations. The class party was one of the most successful ever staged by the Class of '24. The next social triumph recorded was the reception given to our friends the Seniors. This capped the climax of our eventful Junior year.

At last our aspirations are realized; we are Seniors. As we have finally reached the closing year of our High School career our participation in its activities has accordingly attained its height. The following officers were chosen as class executives: Carl Roberts, President; Mabel Klein, Vice-President; Helen Miller, Secretary; and Billie Gillam, Treasurer; Bertha Schaber was elected as the last member of the Student Council.

The Dramatic club successfully presented two plays during the course of the year. The Seniors have contributed generously to all Varsity teams and are still holding the inter-class basketball championship.

As in each succeeding year a class graduates from this High School it is our sincere hope that the glory of old B. H. S. shall be raised to the skies. We have "run the race that is set before us" as Class of '24.

—MILDRED SCHAEFFER.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1924

We, the members of the Senior class of Bucyrus High School, believing ourselves to be of sound mind and memory, do make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament; hereby revoking all former wills by us made. In manner following that is to say:

First: To Mr. Patterson we leave a bouquet made up of English compositions. All floral specimens in this bouquet are 7.2.

2. To Mr. Simpson, whose highest ambition is to obtain an M.A. degree from the University of Chicago, (before time overtakes him), we bequeath the degree S.S. (Senior Squelcher). We feel that this degree from B. H. S. will bring him more honor than any degree from the University of Chicago ever could.

3. To Miss Coffin we leave a talented Junior class, from which we hope she may develop a premier dramatic production.

4. Unto Mr. Wood we bequeath a beautiful lacquered, non-fragile automatic horn for his Ford. This we believe and sincerely hope will better insure the life of the helpless pedestrians.

5. To Mr. Baer, whose ability as coach of the Spore Ladies' Basketball Team is recognized by all, we leave six copies of the book "Basketball in Three Lessons" by Floyd Yeager.

6. To Miss Mills we bequeath one quart of that precious elixir, which was formerly the property of Ponce de Leon. It is guaranteed to keep, preserve or give perpetual youth. Also we leave one tube of Kantzer's Keep Komb for the unwieldy locks.

7. Unto Miss Beer we bequeath a gold-handled, ebony paddle; ventilation holes on the end made by the court woodpeckers. This is to be used only on the incorrigible and non-conforming Seniors of the classes of 1925 and thereafter.

8. Unto Mrs. Schieber we bequeath a subscription to the great French bi-monthly "La Vie Parisienne." Also we extend the prediction of the class of 1922, that she will have a good voyage to Paris.

9. To Miss Julian, whose active and mathematical mind would solve the most difficult of problems, we leave this question for her to ponder upon: Resolved: That Perspiration and Syncopation are Synonymous.

10. To Mr. Ellis we bequeath $10000000, 000—ad infinitum of counterfeit money. This is to be used in his classes by those ever persevering future business successes.

11. To Mr. McAdams, the great wizard of finance, we bequeath one permit to use the Western Union Telegraph without charge. In this way the city will receive returns of games without charge to the merchants.

12. Unto Mr. Yeager we bequeath one bottle of "Nuxated Iron" to be used to build up and maintain Bucyrus Hi School's envious athletic record.

13. Unto Miss Peterson, the fellows of the Class of '24 wish to extend our thanks for the wonderful impromement in the girls who are under her supervision.

14. To Mr. Frater, the great debater, Also versed in all forensic laws,

We leave a forceful rebuttal for "Because."

15. To Miss Strickland we bequeath several masterpieces of American Literature. These are to be used by her ardent followers. The titles of the books are, "The Sheik" by E. M. Hull, and "Souls for Sale" by Rupert Hughes.

16. Unto Miss George we bequeath a famous old recipe for making the old French dish, Corned Beef and Cabbage.

17. Unto Miss Beery and Miss Brown we bequeath two small radio head-sets, in order that they may be able to talk more effectively to their classes over the noise of pounding typewriters.

In the presence of witnesses I have hereunto subscribed my name.

—H. CLINTON STEVENSON.

Senior Class Prophecy

Year 'pon year has rolled away,
Since Class 24's graduation day.
'Till fate has given me up-to-date,
The facts that I shall here relate.

Earnest Shealy, as solemn as ever,
In business deals still seems quite clever;
He and his pardner shall never sink,
For his able pardner is Charlie Link.

Voyle and Ike, well—I guess you know,
He still goes with her to and fro;
But now 'tis quite in a different way,
For two, not one, he earns his pay.

George Moore reports for The Toledo News
And 'tis usually hard on both feet and shoes,
But the fact that he was such an athlete
Saves him from worry and defeat.

Nina Lust, our timid little lass,
Now teaches a wonderful S. S. Class.
She teaches of missions to foreign nations,
Indeed, she has passed all our expectations.

Ernestine has long had her hope chest filled
And as a cook has become quite skilled;
She sings happy songs, and nothing goes wrong
When she thinks of Howey all day long.

A lovely Tea Shoppe that is widely known
For the service that's always so kindly shown,
Is run by the Athey and Biettner chums;
No credit save smiles are for he who comes.

Millie, who's still so short and so fat,
And Lois McKeehen, our proud aristocrat,
Have traveled together to foreign places,
Selling silk ribbons and fancy laces.

Kleiney is having the time of her life,
Whether to be single? Or be a wife?
The man? It's a secret, take it from me,

He's a humdinger—he surely must be!

Doris has gained for herself a great name,
In helping the poor and helping the lame;
She teaches sanitation in the slums of New York,
How to cook potatoes and roast the pork.

Elizabeth and Alton have quarreled many times,
But always, yes always, have changed their minds.
And they live on—although sometimes rough
And seem to be quite contented enough.

Bernard has gained the grace of ease
And has entered society—if you please.
And Hazel is with him just everywhere,
As much as in school, they seem to care.

Harold Corwin has now a deep bass voice,
That's why he's glad and does rejoice.
For all the girls he willingly competes
With any gent that he ever meets.

Margaret and Cecelia are now widely known,
And to all strangers are proudly shown,
Their clothes the example of the latest cut
From modern days to those of King Tut.

Carl, it is rumored, has changed his course,
The ways of women, he will now endorse.
He picks out his choice from admiring ones
And from those not chosen he quickly runs.

Dorothea and Mildred have answered their call,
To be actresses? Oh, no! Not at all!
All books that are world-wide reaching,
Tell of their gymnastic teaching.

Pledis' life up to now was quite dim,
But there they go—filled full with vim.
A Man and a Maid, on the last of June,
Ah, yes—I'll bet 'tis a honeymoon.

Senior Class Prophecy, Continued

Gert has her way, and Ken has his
She runs the Reo and he the Lizz.
But when on better terms they are,
They both ride on the trolley car.

Mabel Haspeslagh had often told me
That an artist she would like to be;
Seems that her dreams are now fulfilled
And with the brush is wonderfully skilled.

The doings of Helen Mary fill the society
news,
From the social side she takes her views.
She sets the fashion of her very own set,
And those of many others—I'll just bet.

Velma is known from east to west
And many come, her hand in quest;
How many is it? Twenty-four or five—
Her used-to-be husband's still alive.

Bill Leuthold has wandered for many a year,
He'll stop for nothing, never you fear;
For Lima still calls him, more and more,
And 'tis still the same girl as 'twas before.

James Foulke has entered theatrical work,
As the part of the hero—he's the Turk!
Fred Greenwich is with him too, they say,
As the part of a cowboy he saves the day.
Naomi has conquered her bashfulness,
And is now quite engrossed in business.
She takes active part in politics
And lectures against politicians' tricks.

Lois and Alice, 'tis rumored about,
And I'm quite sure I'm not in doubt,
Have followed their wandering spirit afar,
In a Gypsy band that feather and tar.

Margaret Baker is now a shining star
In the business world both near and far.
The principles of business under Mr. Ellis,
Account for success—they all will tell us.

Jim Beam still as tall as he used to be,
And still as strong and husky is he.
He's taken the heavy-weight championship
With a smile of eye and a smile of lip.

Les has finally flattened his hair,
And he struts around with a distinguished air.
He won't tell when, nor tell us how,
But 'twas through magic we must allow.

Ev. Schieber is still envolved in love,
They fall as the rain does from above.
But Jimmy and Steve have now lost out,
And Shorty and Cec had better watch out!

Frances and George have taken the vow,
They feed the chickens and milk the cow.
Farmers—ah yes! You've certainly guessed;
Maybe 'tis true, but maybe a jest.

Charles Allen has used his weak little voice
For the very wisest of any choice.
He sings in the choir to demonstrate
How little a voice was left him by fate.

Bill Gillam has sobered to a great extent,
And now his efforts are otherwise bent.
A minister as solemn as solemn can be
And yet friendly to both you and me.

Bob Given is now known as an orator,
Better than any that appeared of yore.
He makes you laugh and makes you weep,
And sometimes makes you want to sleep.

As a vamp, none can surpass Mary Rinker.
Do they fall? They take hook and sinker!
But Lois Morton is known fully as well
As society news of papers will tell.

Red Gearhart, we hear, is broken of heart,
From persuading Cupid to direct his dart
At a certain young lady of high esteem
On whom he showers beam after beam.

Senior Class Prophecy, Continued

Pearl Deisler and June have gained renown,
Since they have left our worthy town.
They enforce the laws and gather the tariff,
As they are the deputy and the sheriff.

Gail Pinney has joined with our Sam Rice,
Tho' Sammy is bigger than Gail—twice.
Or maybe 'tis not that way at all—
But Gail was the one, skinny and tall.

Viola, Mary Heller and Emma Linn,
Are much opposed to the use of gin.
They go about preaching against its use,
And prescribe in its place, just lemon juice.

Bob Ackerman is quite a ventriloquist
And uses for his dummy, Charlie Ghist.
They both do fine, we must admit,
Due to their cleverness and their wit.

Eleanor Kuebler entered matrimonial seas;
She entertains lavishly and at ease.
She has the man, and she has the money,
Indeed her life seems full of honey.

Lola Belle has furthered her inclination
And Anna Belle has her imagination;
They propose the styles in laces and frills,
But urge you not tell the amount of the bills.

Our Johns have won in a political campaign;
With dignity they their positions reign.
Shuler as president of the United States
And Lowmiller the storms of Senate abates.

Lucille Snavelly has now quieted down,
She acts no more the part of a clown;
We think how noisy she used to be,
But she has changed, you will agree.

Esther sits high as our worthy mayor,
And there are none who won't obey her,
While Nana's work is very effective,
As she is known as Esther's detective.

Homer has written just scores of books
And never a fact of importance o'erlooks.
His histories are great and some folks say
That a finer historian ne'er came this way.

Graden has now got his troubles o'er
For he won that girl from Sycamore.
They live in Lemert, I was told so,
And as a lawyer he earns his dough.

Laura still wears that ring as yet,
But has another without any set.
We were sure she'd get it before very long,
Now we know we were not in the wrong.

Pearl Taylor has followed the end of her nose,
And now as an actress does daily pose.
They tell us she's making a grand success,
Her life seems filled with sunniness.

George Miller has followed the dentist's trade,
And for himself his name has made.
'Tis sometimes hard for him to perform,
But a ladder helps to weather the storm.

Kathryn and Wade are farmers, I see,
And are just as happy as they can be.
They go to the city to attend a play,
But never will any longer stay.

Nellie Zeller has gone to be a trained nurse,
Wherever she goes, they send back the hearse.
Her wonderful pardner is our Imo Reece,
Who gives you stuff, the pain to cease.

Florence Dininger—that noisy thing
We never knew that she could sing;
But seems as though she can, you know,
And happily sings do-me-fa-sol.

Myron was new in our Senior year,
But good reports we always hear.
He donned the gown and donned the cap,
A college professor now on the map.

Rusty told me she would be a doctor
And wondered why I did so mock her,
We all know she is delicate and frail,
And at the sign of pain grows deathly pale.

Donald resides as president of the bank,
His best known advisor is Carl Frank.
They take in the money, you just bet,
And don't give it back already yet.

Florence still has her hair cut short
In leap year she can surely court.
She gives demonstrations along the art,
That pertain to love and to the heart.

Russell sounds like a big bass viol
His voice can be heard for many a mile.
His concerts are good though not very many,
Charging for admission a single penny.

Dick Sprow, the bashful one of the class,
He never could look at a single lass.
He's studied the best rules of etiquette,
And as a result is quite a coquette.

Dave Rogers directs a find cheering block
Although he's felt full many a rock.
His helper is one who's not easily hurt,
Who goes by the name of Gerald Heckert.
Ed Greenwich has lost his pink of complexion,
Of cream and powder we have faint detection;
But we all admit it must have taken brains
And not just such a very few pains.

Clara was a regular bookkeeping shark,
And Emily was always up to the mark.
What one of them knows the other one lacks,
So together, they figure their income tax.

Bertha has worked for many a year,
For her ambition to her so dear.

Success has crowned her efforts in life,
For she just makes a wonderful wife.

Harlen well known for his golden hair,
Rides the trolley without paying fare.
I'll bet you can't guess just why it is—
Why, he's a conductor with lots of "bizz."

Helen Leuthold still hates to be bossed
And will not be, whatever the cost.
She'll tell you she has a mind of her own,
And she'll let you know when she'll be shown.

Peachy Graetz looks to left and to right,
No longer do the girls give fright.
He picks out the best of all the lot,
Although some are bashful, some are not.

Bertha Walters, that tall blonde you see,
And her fair helper, Mabel Snavelly
Are experts on hints pertaining to love,
And claim their authority is from the dove.

Harold Smith leads an athletic occupation,
Nor smokes nor nuthin', tho' a temptation.
One prize he is always sure to win,
Is nuthin' but the standin' broad grin.

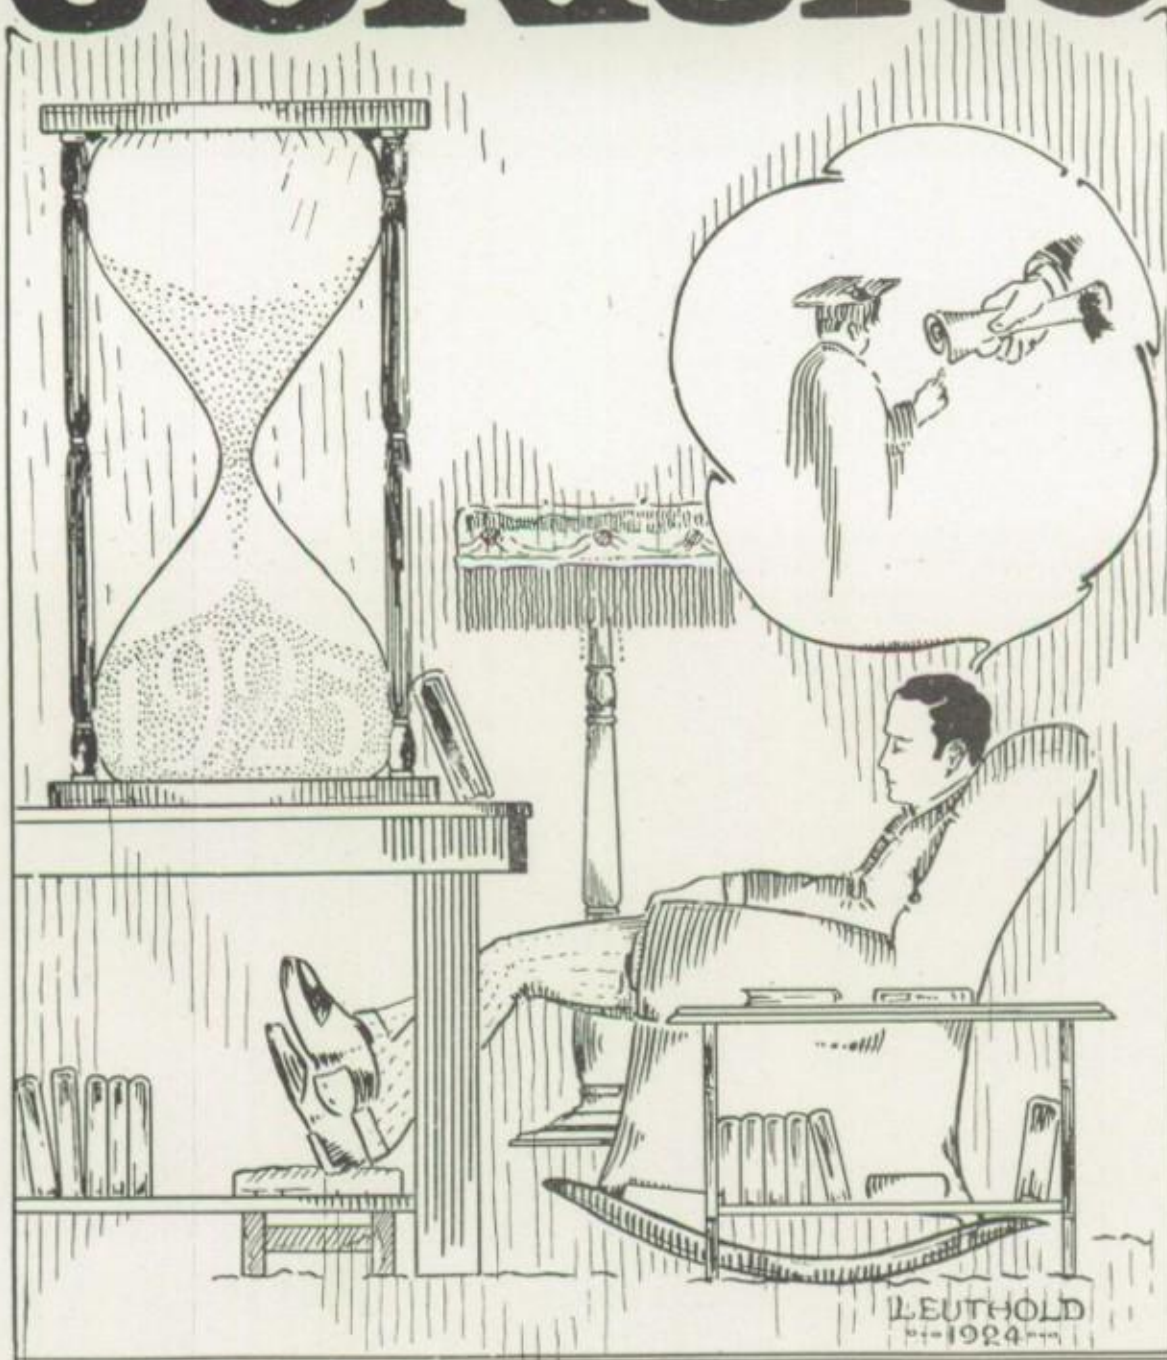

Helen Tallman still opposes her name,
For in shortness of stature she is the same.
But alas, her name is that no more,
Tho' what 'tis—I ne'er heard before.

Park was always quiet and demure,
And must be yet, I'm almost sure.
At least from all reports I hear,
Though I've not heard for many a year.

So this is what I've heard to date,
And none I meant to aggravate.
'Twas fate that told me of the course,
So won't you kindly consider the source?

Junior Class History

After three years of diligent concentration on our text books, we have almost attained the goal for which we were striving. Next year we will be the dignified Seniors of B. H. S.

In the fall of the year of 1921 we entered High School, one hundred and fifty strong, not as "Freshies" but as ninth graders with the same opportunities as the Freshmen of yore. We were permitted to organize early and with Mr. Wood as Faculty Adviser we elected James Conklin, President; Gerald Gaa, Vice President; Donald Auck, Secretary; Robert Brinkman, Treasurer. The colors chosen were Scarlet and Gray. "Ikey" starred for us in football basketball and baseball and gave our class the honor of having a representative in every sport. We were weak in the inter-class basketball tournament and ended the season in third place. The social season was filled with many private parties but at the peak stands our first class party, which was a great success, due to the efforts of Mr. Wood and the committee who worked hard to make it so. The gym and cafeteria were decorated with the class colors and an enjoyable time was had by all. Thus ended our activities for the first year.

The next year we came back to our accustomed haunts as "Sophs", and now held the right to call ourselves the "Class of '25", the youngest class of the Senior High. We again organized early and with Miss Moore as Adviser; Edwin Norton, President; Ernestine Donnelly, Vice President; John Long, Secretary; and Franklin Roberts, Treasurer; James Conklin and Dorothy Schieber on the Senior High Student Council, we started our second school year together. The class again gave its quota toward the sports of Bucyrus High and in both basketball and baseball we made better records than ever before. Our social activities increased and all parties held by the class were a success. The first two years have passed leaving us the Juniors of B. H. S.

Our Junior year started as most school years do but instead of being looked down upon by the upper-classmen, we were now upper-classmen ourselves. The class officers elected were Edwin Norton, President; Dorothy Schieber, Vice President; Virginia Dwire, Secretary; Evelyn Class, Treasurer. Mr. Baer was chosen Faculty Adviser and Verna Korb to serve on the Student Council with Dorothy Schieber and Gerald Gaa, who was elected to serve in James Conklin's place. Our enrollment is now about one hundred fifteen. Every year our athletic ability increases and more of our classmen come into the lime-light as athletes. It is also our honor to have the Captain-elect for football and basketball chosen from our class this year. Social life is at its height and soon will come the Junior-Senior reception at the close of school. It is the highest honor we Juniors can pay to the Seniors while they are in school. Three years of our school life have passed by never to return and soon we will be in the honor-worn seats of the Seniors of other years.

The class of 1925 shall claim the unique distinction of being the first class to pass from Freshmen to Seniors in the new School Building.

—ROBERT BREISINGER, '25.

Junior-Senior Reception

On May 16, 1924, 220 upper classmen assembled in the High School Gym to celebrate the annual reception in honor of the departing Seniors.

The Gym was gorgeously decorated with the Senior class colors, red and black, while centerpieces of roses adorned the five long tables. Red and black balloons attached by alternate colored cord floated above the tables.

The Kings Daughters served a menu of shredded chicken, mashed potatoes, creamed peas, buttered rolls, pineapple salad with salted wafers, and orange ice, while the Green Imps of Denison furnished the music.

John Long very ably acted as toastmaster and the speeches given by the different members of the class were well handled. Edwin Norton welcomed the Seniors and Carl Roberts responded. Miriam Schwartzkopf, Evelyn Schieber, George Harris, Franklin Roberts and Mr. Patterson also gave short toasts, and Mr. Wood, the Senior adviser gave a short farewell speech and a word of appreciation to the Seniors with whom he worked so faithfully for two years.

After the banquet and speeches the play "Cupid in Khaki" was presented by the following cast: Helen Niederheiser, Naomi Haines, Martha Shanks, Ethel Swank, Floyd Berry, John Long, Calvin Heinlen. Piano solo, Ernestine Donnelly.

At the conclusion of this, dancing was announced and a riot of color flooded the floor till the close of the evening.

This reception is said to be the best that has ever been given for several years and due thanks are given to those who helped to make it so.

Sophomore Class History

We, the Class of '26, entered our High School career as Freshmen, September 5, 1922. Although we were termed ninth graders by our teachers, our upper classmen did not forget that we were also "Freshies." That first evening we were met by a whole regiment of students, ready for us with the necessary equipment for our initiation. But we took our medicine bravely, and next day we didn't fail to report to our classes, although our faces bore marks of the last evening's capers.

After being accustomed to the daily routine of work we elected class officers: President, John Bieber; Vice President, Mary Korn; Secretary and Treasurer, Jane Maxwell. A member, from each home room, was chosen for the student council. This body did much to stimulate the interest of each student toward the betterment of our school, and it was mainly through their efforts that we made our Freshman year very successful.

In athletics we were well represented, and though we were not "Champs" it must be admitted that we are real fighters and good sportsmen.

The main social event was, of course, the Freshman party, and through the efforts of Miss McCann, our faculty adviser, and the committee, it was indeed a success.

One event followed quickly upon another and in a very short time we found that the school term was drawing to a close. Thus our Freshman year was ended.

After a splendid vacation, we returned to our B. H. S. very ambitious and with renewed energy.

"Turn about's fair play," so we intended getting our turn at the Freshies. On the appointed evening not a Freshman was to be seen, but there are two years ahead of us in which we can make good our threat.

We again elected class officers: President, John Kiess; Vice President, Helen Stuckman; Secretary and Treasurer, Jay Tippin. The student council members elected were Rhea Lindsey and John Bieber.

As before, we were prominent in athletics, one man, Norris, playing varsity football.

We have had many private social affairs but the main event was the Sophomore Class party. This was the most brilliant affair our class has ever given.

Now our Sophomore career is ended and the Class of '26 have come up to all expectations. We hope that those who take our place next year will benefit by the example we have tried to set.

Junior High History

The Junior High, just so recently introduced in this school, has become very well organized. The Junior High Student Council is composed of one member selected from each home room. The student council meetings are really social gatherings where the members suggest and talk over plans for the betterment of the school spirit and morale. Miss Renkert, as faculty adviser, takes charge of the meetings. Once a month each Student Council representative gives a report of the preceding meeting in his home room. By means of this plan the students become acquainted with it's work and thus are better fitted.

The Dramatic abilities of Junior Hi have been displayed in the operettas given. These have been selected and presented by Miss Rochester, our musical instructor. The operettas staged this year were "Yanki San" and "The Pioneer's Papoose." The Junior High Orchestra, under the supervision of Miss Kantzer, accompanied these operettas as well as those given by the grade schools.

Both the boys and the girls participated in successful gym exhibitions under the supervision of Mr. Yeager and Miss Peterson, athletic instructors of the High School.

The home rooms, too, are organized like clubs, having the officers of President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, Student Council Representative, and Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Freshmen have been permitted to organize and select class colors. Blue and gold were the selected colors and the following officers were elected:

MARTIN SHEETS—President

LeETTA KURTZ—Vice President

HELEN HEISKELL—Secretary

EVELYN IMMEL—Treasurer

The Freshman class party was held in the Gym, which was cleverly decorated in the class colors, blue and gold. Dancing, games and other amusements, as well as refreshments made the evening very enjoyable and one to be remembered by all who attended.

Junior High has a prominent place on the Honor Roll. Statistics show that sixteen have had a sufficient number of "A's" to be on the semester Honor Roll.

The football squad had a few Junior Hi representatives. Alex Kish, George Volk, Harold Ball and Rea Wickiser. These boys will undoubtedly find permanent places on the squad next year.

We had three Basketball teams from Junior High this year. Seventh and Eighth Grade Boys' team, Freshman Girls' team, and Freshman Boy's team. Each team had many opportunities to play. They were defeated in the Class Tournaments but they are very optimistic about next year's games.

The Junior High is up and going as any normal person can see, so let's give them a good yell:

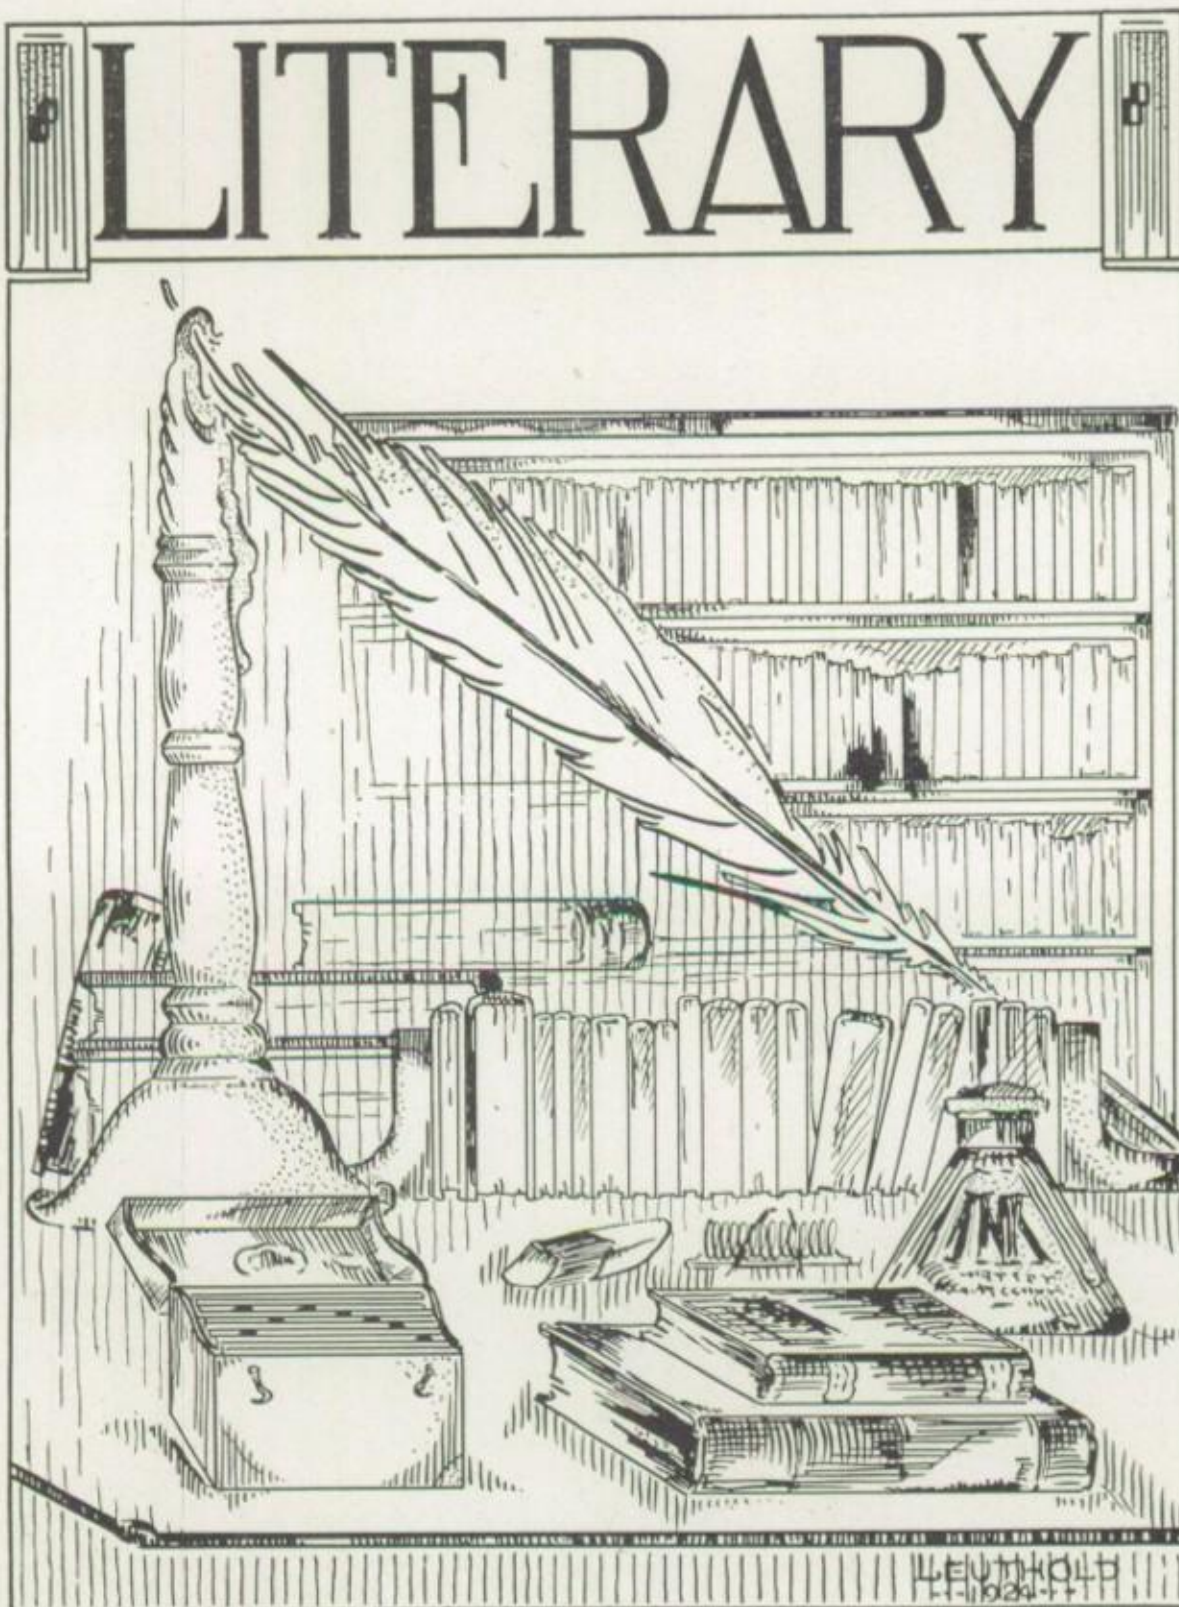

Junior High, Rah!

Junior High, Rah!

Rah! Rah! Junior High!

—JANET MARTIN.

Debate

The first class that Bucyrus High School has ever had was organized this year with Mr. Frater acting as coach. There was a fine class of twenty-four. From this group twelve were chosen as the debate squad, six being retained for each team.

In the first triangular meet with Marion and Delaware, both of our teams were defeated but their spirit and indomitable courage could not be suppressed.

The next triangular debate was with Gal-ion and Bellefontaine. Here both teams won honors for the school and themselves. Now that they have got their stride they will probably bring many more honors to B. H. S.

The prospects for next year are also very excellent and promising as the entire negative squad and all the affirmative with the exception of James Foulke, Captain, will probably be back again next year.

Affirmative Team

The affirmative team was composed of James Foulke, Captain; Helen Neiderheiser, Lucy Mae Roelle, and Walter Campbell, Alt. This combination worked well together, although this was their first year of debating.

Foulke was a debater of whom the school could well be proud. Working under severe handicaps in the first debate he showed a fighting spirit that was characteristic of his efforts throughout the season. B. H. S. will regret very much to lose this worthy debater. He proved himself a fine captain.

Helen was a valuable asset to the team and made her opponents take notice when she gave her constructive argument and fiery rebuttal. Her thoughts were original and she presented them with ease and sincerity.

Lucy Mae was a great contributing factor to the team's success. Her masterful and smooth delivery besides her ease and grace made her indispensable to the team.

Walter, as alternate, proved to be an ever-ready helper of the team and continually helped the other debaters. He was a hard worker, and should prove a valuable speaker next year.

Negative Team

The Negative debate team was composed of Mary Korn, Captain; John Kiess, George Pfeiderer, James Grant and Virginia Schaber, with Pierson Linn as alternate.

Mary Korn was elected captain and proved herself to be an efficient leader as well as one of the best speakers on the team because of her sincerity and grace in delivery.

Kiess was a valuable man for the team. He always showed a fine fighting spirit and B. H. S. hopes to claim him again next year for her varsity.

Pfeiderer, too, was a newcomer in Debate, but his easy manner and convincing arguments made him a very important supplement to the team and its success.

James Grant, although a Freshman, was an important supplement to the team. B. H. S. hopes to claim him for three more years of debating.

Virginia Schaber was a very capable alternate. She was a valuable asset to the team and could scarcely be excelled as an alternate.

Pierson Linn was also a new addition to the squad. Nevertheless he showed remarkable ability as an alternate.

MY FIRST LONG TROUSERS

"The lilies of the field" or "Solomon in all his glory" were not arrayed like I was when I donned my first long trousers and strutted down the avenue. I felt exactly like the person does who comes home on a vacation after two weeks at college. The town seemed to decrease in proportion to my expansion. In fact, I a'most departed from this "dead" town to seek the bright lights of the so-called gay cities. I was just contemplating this, because I really was a MAN now, and could do manly things, when I found myself in a rather intricate position in the middle of the road. Two automobiles were passing in opposite directions, and I, poor victim, was splashed and splattered from the top of my "College cut" hat to the soles of my sophisticated boots. I stood dazed for a minute, until the shrill laughter of a school-boy awakened me and the full realization of my predicament dawned upon my unsuspecting mind. Then, with all possible haste, I dodged another pedestrian and fled to my home, to mourn the wreckage of my once stylishly fitted coat and most of all, my adored long trousers.

MY FIRST APPEARANCE ON A PROGRAM

I was just seventeen and had finished harvesting when father said he thought I would be able to take care of myself in one of them city schools. I told him I thot so myself, so on the following Monday we went into town to see the Principal. We arranged a schedule and I was told to come back the next day and begin.

Tuesday was a big day for me. I put on my new twelve buttoned shoes, my blue socks and my Sunday-go-to-meetin' suit, and all in all I was some dude. Well, I guess I made a pretty big hit in the city because wherever I went, I always had a flock of kids following me. The first three days were swell. I only got bawled out once.

By that time I was known and they put me on a chapel program. I was to play a piece on my harmonica. The time arrived and I felt awful funny. I was short of wind, my throat was clogged up, my stomach didn't work right, and my knees kept wiggling. I was announced and as I was going up the steps I fell and everybody laughed. When I got up, I bowed the way I was taught in Sunday School and started to play. Everybody roared, so I just up and quit; I was mad. They didn't like good music, so I just hitched Nell and drove home. I haven't gone back yet and don't intend to.

EXCITING MOMENTS

Wayland Avenue, a street in a certain small town, is noted for its haunts and very mysterious proceedings. Only two weeks ago a beautiful girl, who was on her way to the store for her mother, was suddenly confronted by a man, who was masked. As no one was in sight, she was forced into an automobile which had been concealed in a near-by alley.

The girl was blindfolded, consequently she was not able to make out where she was being taken. They rode quite a distance and then came to a sudden halt. She was lifted gently out of the automobile, placed on the ground, and marched up several flights of steps to—, she knew not where. After the door was closed behind them, the blindfold was removed from her eyes. She had no idea where she was or what chances she had of escaping.

At her home a search was being made for her, her absence being discovered about two hours after her departure for the store. Police were put on the case but to no avail. During the two weeks of the search the following incidents happened:

For about two weeks back a house in a lonely section of this vicinity had been reported haunted. People claimed they had seen lights appear in the window and a shadow, the form of a girl, could be seen every evening on the window shade. Immediately the owner of the old house, who was away for the winter, was notified of these proceedings and he was asked to send instructions as to what the town should do about it. He took no action and as usual no one else did and the notification stopped then and there.

A group of "brave" men then organized to watch the proceedings of this haunted house. The group, however, never got so close to the house that by any mishap they might be seen by the ghost occupants.

One particular night, a young man with much courage and with an equal amount of curiosity was numbered among the group. He was very anxious and very impatient for the usual evening performance to begin, in fact he was much too eager for the older members of the group.

His wish was satisfied for just then a crash was heard and a ghostly and most piteous moan issued from the house. Forms were seen moving about in the house and a great clattering of china could be heard as if a great feast was being prepared. The usual shadow on the window shades appeared. The frail girlish form swayed to and fro, waving her arms high above her head apparently calling for help. Another crash was heard and the frail form crumpled to the floor. The youth was stunned but stuck to his post. These proceedings had been too much for the rest of the group and they fled in terror to their respective horses and from thence to their homes.

Bang! Crash! Bang! Dishes seemed to be coming down. Music was also heard, and besides this, all kinds of spooky noises issued from inside. Bang! Boo! Boom! Everything was over and once again the mysterious house was as silent as death.

Steadily lights appeared once more in the upper half of the house and the ghost occupants seemed to be moving as quietly as possible. From one room to another went the lights, then back to the first one. Now and then the shadow of a girlish form appeared on the window shade and was as quickly drawn back by a long mysterious hand.

The youth watched as long as he could and then his curiosity got the better of him. Advancing cautiously towards the house, he examined the ground very closely. He found what he was looking for and followed them, for they were the tracks of a girl and those of a man, to the back door. If it had not been for the heavy rain that had fallen this discovery would have been impossible. Cautiously he entered the door and snapped on the lights only to have them snapped off immediately. With a curse on his lips he drew a loaded revolver and a very powerful flashlight from his coat pocket. He was then determined to see the affair to the end. As he turned on his flashlight he was amazed to see an empty room before him. Three doors with a sign attached to each were the only things to be seen. The sign on the left door said, "Explore no farther into my depths or meet a horrible death"; sign number two read, "Enter and return to your home no more"; the last sign was written in a very small type and was as follows: "This way to find fools like yourself".

Very much amazed at these unusual signs the youth decided to go the rounds. Opening door number one, he found a large spacious room filled with dainties to eat. From this room there was no outlet except the one by which he had entered. He looked around but to his dismay found no ghosts to attract his attention. Consequently he came out of this room very much disheartened.

Upon entering room number two, he saw a beautiful bedroom suite of a mahogany finish. The room showed evidence of having been used only a short time before. This aroused his interest and, searching as he went, he explored the whole room. The only thing he found that might be of importance was a small gold ring with the initial "M" engraved on the inside. Seeming to have no direct connection with his search, he dropped it unthinkingly into his coat pocket. For the second time he withdrew into the large empty room.

He then decided to enter the third room and accordingly turned his light in this direction. As he did so a ruffle of skirts and the running of several pairs of feet was heard, the footsteps scurrying to the stairs at the back of the room. This began to appear exciting and mysterious but with teeth shut he entered the third room and closed the door after him. Only a dim outline of the furniture was disclosed by the rays of his light. The stairs wove around a curve in the room and he could see the top without going up two or three steps.

He then advanced very cautiously toward the top of the stairs, hesitating a moment after each step as he did not care to have his small audience think he was a coward nor did he wish them to think he was over-anxious to explore the depths of such a mystery. Every step he took sent back a queer echo which added greatly to the spookiness of such a place.

"Please do not hurt me," wailed a voice from the depths of a room at the head of the stairs.

"Shut up or I will administer the knife at once to you and to that unfortunate fool who is trying to follow us," was the angry retort.

"Take my life if you must, you bloodthirsty murderer, but please don't kill Je-Je-Jerry," cried the piteous voice again.

"Jerry the d—. What do I care for him. Maybe if he were out of the way, I would stand a better chance of bringing you to reason," snarled the man.

All this sounded suspicious to Jerry, this being the name of the young adventurer. His thoughts immediately flew back to Mary, the girl of his heart who had been kidnapped two weeks ago and also to the ring with the initial "M" engraved on it which he had found in this horrible house. He was getting very nervous but was more than ever determined to get to Mary for he believed that it might be "his Mary."

A vision of a little church decorated with beautiful flowers came into his mind and he heard the beautiful strains of the wedding march being played for Mary and himself. She had been kidnapped only two weeks before their wedding and this very night was to have been their wedding eve, but suddenly his dreams had been scattered to the four winds.

Forcing himself on, he entered a room but finding nothing entered another room. Here he found a wardrobe trunk hung with quite a collection of white wearing apparel, while on the wall hung a black dress with a belt of flowers. He recognized this at once to be Mary's. These familiar objects put new vigor into his veins and he rushed down the hallway and into the room where sounds now issued with increasing violence. He grasped his revolver and stepped up to a man whose back was turned toward him.

"Hands up!" cried Jerry.

Up flew two pairs of hands. The man whirled around and with much surprise on his face looked at Jerry. Jerry started, for he was then looking into the face of John Martin, his next door neighbor. Glancing at the second pair of hands he saw his beloved Mary with a gag in her mouth and looking the picture of misery.

He knocked John down, tied his hands and feet securely and turning to Mary, he took the gag out of her mouth. Uttering a cry, she leaped at him with joy showing in her poor little face.

"Jerry, Jerry, I am so glad you have come for me. I have waited so long and no one has come, and Oh, Jerry" she sobbed, "this was to have been our wedding day."

"Never mind, dearest, it will be all right now. We have each other once more and tomorrow we will be married, missing only one day."

So engrossed were they that the oncoming storm had not been perceived until great volumes of thunder were heard and sharp flashes of lightning were seen. They paid no attention to this, however, but hurried away to Mary's home.

What a home-coming it was! Everyone ran out to see what was happening and imagine their surprise when they saw Mary and Jerry awaiting them on the porch. The good news spread in no time and many people flocked in to hear Mary's tale and also breathlessly listened to the story given by Jerry.

The two had a pretty wedding the next day and everyone was just as happy as if nothing mysterious or unfortunate had happened. All their friends from far and near came to wish the bride and groom long life and happiness.

John Martin was taken to jail and there he awaited his trial with a heavy heart. He confessed that he had been jealous of Jerry and had wished to gain revenge by stealing his betrothed away before the wedding, that he sorely repented later when he read the beautiful account of their wedding and heard many glowing accounts of their supreme happiness.

LOOK OUT FOR THE PAINT

There were two young people seated on a park bench. They seemed to be ignorant of all surrounding conditions. Different crowds passed them, each having a different thing to complain about. One group was discussing a coal strike, another the raise in food articles, and still another was of the opinion that their landlord should be driven out because he had again raised the rent.

Yet the couple still sat planning how two could live cheaper than one.

"We'll rent a three room apartment. I think I can save enough money from my expenses to pay the rent. For instance, I get my Palm Beach suit cleaned every week; by doing away with this we could save about ten dollars a month."

She sighed and laid her small bobbed head on his shoulder and said, "I just knew you'd think of some way."

That night when he returned home he discovered a round red spot on his shoulder where her cheek had lain.

Moral—If you expect to keep a Palm Beach suit away from the cleaners, "Look Out For The Paint."

Bucyrian Bi-Weekly

The "Bucyrian Bi-Weekly" has been very successful during the school year of 1923-24. Not only has it been successful in itself but it has aided much in making the school year as a whole a success, enabling people in and out of the school to learn the news. In spite of the fact that with the exception of two or three, the students constituting the staff were inexperienced in newspaper work, the paper was well edited and the entire staff became adjusted to the work within a remarkably short time. The exchange department was developed extensively, having nearly fifty schools on the exchange list. The high type of news, stories and editorials that have found their way into the paper show that the editorial department was wide awake, while the scandal and joke columns and the sport write-ups have proven to be the life of the paper. The society page was always well handled. An especially high quality of work was done in the business and advertising end of the publication and the two faculty advisers, Miss Strickland and Miss Meck, deserve a great deal of credit for their splendid work.

The staff: Editor-in-chief, John Schuler; Associate Editor, Robert Brinkman; Literary Editor, Ernestine Donnelly; Society Editor, Mildred Schaeffer; Athletic Editor, Geo. Pfeiderer; Joke Editor, Edwin Gearhart; Exchange Editor, Billie Gillam; Business Manager, Charles Allen; Assistant Business Manager, James Foulke; Advertising Manager, George Moore; Assistant Advertising Managers, Dorothea Lichty and Evelyn Class; Circulation Manager, Mabel Klein; Assistant Circulation Manager, Evelyn Schieber; Cartoonist, Warren Leuthold; Literary Adviser, Mary Strickland; Business Adviser, Kathryn Meck; Typists, Eleanor Kuebler and Harold Corwin.

The staff appreciates the attitude of co-operation the members of the faculty have shown toward the "Bucyrian".

ATHLETICS

Football Summary

At the first call for football, over forty-five men reported to Coach Yeager. It certainly looked good to see that bunch of beef out there on the grid iron ready to start training. Things went along fine and they promised a successful season for the "Red and White" oval rollers, until a flock of injuries took a visit in the Bucyrus Camp and the boys came out on the short end of the wins.

The first game of the season started out with a beautiful, thirteen to nothing victory over Bellevue which showed that there was plenty of stuff in the mole-skin artists if they would only let it out. Things moseyed along for a couple of weeks leaving one defeat and tie behind until the Delaware crew came up for a little encounter which ended in another win for the boys in Red, to the tune of sixty-three to nothing. It was a beautiful game, full of nice long runs and some pretty line bucks. To give the visiting lads a chance we ran out of subs and played the last few minutes with ten men.

It was too good to last for the team went down in two more defeats. First to Toledo and next to Marion. But that was nothing to lower the spirit of the fellows because they came back and trounced Ashland and Richwood just to prove that, because they were down in the number of victories to their credit they were far from out.

After the Marion game the team had three more tough rows to hoe and they all proved a little too much for the gang. Findlay took the first of the three games from us and then Galion stepped in and knocked us off for the second game. After being handed two defeats by Findlay and Galion respectively the fellows were loaded for bear when they meet the Shelby aggregation. It was a hard-fought game and looked like a tie up until the time a fleet half-back of the visitors' team pulled a sixty-five yard run which resulted in seven points being chalked up for the visitors. Then the game ended with us at the short end of the score and at the end of our schedule.

Coach Yeager

Coach Yeager came to us from Mt. Union where he has been the idol in football, baseball, and basketball for several years.

"Yeg" is a man of few words but what he says counts. He is firm but not harsh, friendly but not offensive, an executive and a gentleman. It is to this type of a coach that Bucyrus High alumni and students look up for fame in Athletics.

We are all proud to have this type of a man among men at the head of our Athletic Department and we are all more than satisfied with him as a coach.

E.A. McADAMS
FACULTY MGR.

McAdams

Talk about a financial wizard, we have one in our athletic department, Mr. McAdams, or better known as "Mack", has upheld his old record of treating any visiting team with the best possible courtesy and giving them the fat of the land. There has never been a team of any kind leave Bucyrus feeling as though they hadn't received a square deal, while "Mack" has been at the head of our athletic finances. He has a good record and we all hope that he'll continue in the same capacity for many years.

The Players

"GHIST"

"Snowball" was a small cyclone when turned loose on a football field. "Charlie" was handicapped by being about the size of a second compared with most of the centers he bucked nose with but he was so fast that it made him almost unable to keep on his feet when he got into motion. Ghist leaves via the graduation route.

"BRINKMAN"

"Bob" has been a fixture on the Red and White line for two years and has another year of it. Brinkman dished out a brand of football playing that will give him everlasting life in our hall of fame. He made a good running partner with James and has caused great portions of sorrow to be rampant in the camps of opposing teams.

"HARRIS"

"Har" opened the season in his old half-back position and held it during the year. "George" could foot that "lemon" high and far down the field, a thing which caused great gobs of misery to the opposition. "Harris" hit a little slump but came back during the later games with a defense and offense playing, only seen in the Bucyrus camp. He is a Senior.

"SMITH"

"Alton" was the shining light of our back field. He could hit the line like several tons of brick dropped from a ten-story building. Although "Smith" was injured in the Marion game he came back and produced the goods. His end run threw terror into the hearts of many a team during the past season but he could also take the terror out and put grief in when he backed up the line. He graduates.

"NORTON"

Playing his second year at end for the Bucyrus Hi eleven Eddie did his bit gathering in passes and smearing plays. The fast little end got a couple of cracks at the quarter-back position and proved that he is valuable material for that place. With his knowledge of the game and his fine sportsman-like spirit he'll make a good man to captain the team next year thru its list of hard battles. Good luck to "Eddie" and the team.

"ROBERTS"

Roberts was one of the best contenders for the end position and was a domineering figure in breaking up end runs and off-tackle plays. "Toby" played some at center but his most brilliant work was at end. Last year's experience should make a very valuable man out of Toby and everyone expects great things of him during next season.

"SHERER"

"Shorty" shares honors with "Ike," "Smitty," and "Elt" when it comes to carrying that pig-skin. This year was Sherer's first crack at football and we are all sorry that it was his last. "Shorty" was a swift, aggressive half-back and many times during the season he put a thrill into the spectators. We all hope that there'll be more like Sherer out for football next year.

"JAMES"

"Walt" was a "bear" on the right flank of the team; his ability to block punts, smash interferences, spill plays and get tackles was something to be marvelled at. Last season was his second try at the game and he showed old form plus a plenty of ability to learn new things and put them into practice. "Jesse" will be with us again next year.

"NEIDERHEISER"

Neiderheiser is a new man at the game of football but made out of the same stuff as "James". "Stan" played a hard and stiff battle at guard and helped form a wall-like defense. Although last year was his first try at the oval game he showed good form and made up in aggressiveness and grit what he lacked in experience. There's one thing to be thankful for; he's with us next year.

"ACKERMAN"

"Bob" is an old veteran of the tackle position and played his games like one. His previous experience, together with good coaching made him a shining light on the line. He was in almost every play with a determination to do something and he surely did his bit. It's tough to think of it but he's played his last game for the school.

"KISH"

When it comes to going down under punts they'll all have to travel to catch Kish. He was a domineering figure on the line and had a wonderful knack at breaking up end runs and off tackle plays. "Alic" was parked at the end position and always had a mess of hot stuff ready to dish out to anyone coming around his way. Another sweet thing about "Kish find" is that he'll be with us next year.

"KENNEDY"

"Fat" spent his time on the line at tackle and gained the name of one of the hardest fighting men who ever wore the Red and White uniform. When "Fat" played opposite a man the lad would always be certain that he had been mixed up in a battle. Usually the opposition would look as though a flock of steam rollers had just completed a Marathon across his map. Kennedy graduates.

"ABBEY"

"Frank" won distinction last year as a consistent performer. Football was a new adventure for the big tackle but he played like a veteran. He caused many a back-field man to register great slews of amazement by tearing through the line and arriving in the opponent's back field before the play had much more than started. Someone said he was leaving! Tough for the team.

"NORRIS"

"Norris," the fleet half-back of our team, made up in speed and grit what he lacked in experience. Last year was his first time on the varsity and there earned his place well. "Elt" has two more years of football in High School and we all have good reason to believe that he'll develop into the fastest half-back in the league.

"NUSSBAUM"

Watch out for "Ike" around end! Watch out for "Ike" through the line! Watch out for "Ike" off tackle! These foregoing sentences were quite common on the football field last year. Ike was a good pilot and always full of fight. There were very few quarter-backs in this part of the state who could direct a team through a hard battle any better than the fleet little quarter-back, Nussbaum. Another year of it for "Ike."

"PFLEIDERER"

"Butz" is a good all around man in the back-field and when it comes to figuring out what to do next, he was right there. George is not a large man but when it comes to carrying that ball he surely is a whizz and many times during the season he had the crowd on their toes when he broke away and made a pretty zig-zagging run down the field. George is a Junior

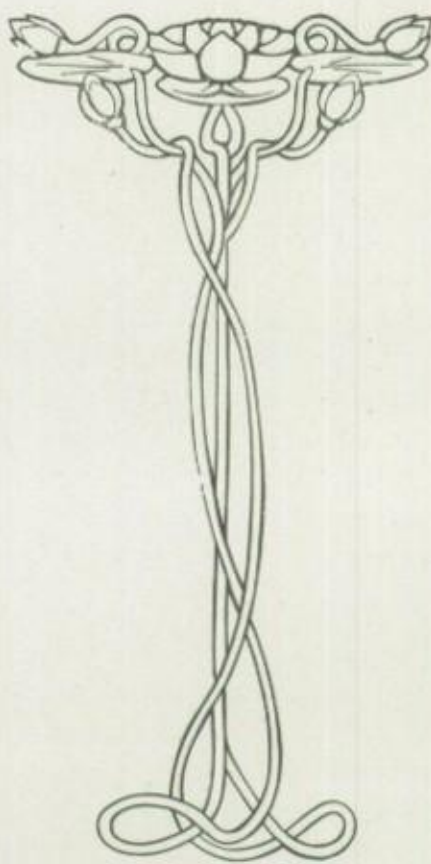

"STUCKMAN"

Playing his last year for the Red and White, Captain Stuckman led his team through all but two games of the season. "Red" was a consistent player, hard fighting guard and more than once it was his "never say die" spirit that led the team on to victory. It would be hard to say which was his best game for he was a shining light in every contest.

"COONEY"

"Mike" had a little hard luck during the first part of the season and was out of the game for a while but he came back during the latter part of the schedule with plenty of fight and back-bone. "Mike" was right there when it came to backing up the line. He played the position of full-back like an old veteran. We are all glad that he'll be with the team again next year and know that he'll make good.

Basketball Summary

This year's basketball team is the most successful of any in the history of the school. The "Red and White" cagers played top notch ball from the beginning of the season to the end and placed Bucyrus High School way up there in the field of basketball.

The season opened with a fast over-time game between Sycamore and our first team. Things went along fine and with the cagers copping off eight straight victories things looked like a championship point-a-minute-team. Then Ada came along and spoiled the point-a-minute vision and left us the championship one.

It was a determined team that tore into the Delaware aggregation and the down-staters were forced to bow to a score of thirteen to twenty-three. After defeating the contender for the league championship the boys lost to Toledo Waite and Ashland. The latter game placed Bucyrus and Ashland in a tie for the league championship. Between these two defeats the team chalked up a victory over the powerful Mt. Vernon team.

To help top off the season the team beat Galion for the regional championship at Norwalk and then invaded the Galion camp on the following week and beat them again by a score of nineteen to eighteen. Out of three games played with our natural rivals we had a total of six more points than they.

After winning the regional championship at Norwalk the team was qualified to attend the state tournament held in Columbus. All the best teams of the state were to compete for the state championship in basketball and the winner of this tournament was to attend a similar one held in Chicago for the national championship. The team drew the powerful Cleveland East aggregation and lost the first game.

This is the first time Bucyrus High has ever qualified to attend a state tournament and it is quite an honor to the team and to the coach whose tireless efforts made all this possible.

Basketball---The Players

KISH

This was the first year of varsity basketball for Kish but it's not his last because he has three more years to show his wares. "Alex" did some remarkable work at the center position and proved that he is capable of handling that job in first class order. Everyone feels sure that he'll be the cause of much agony in rival camps next year.

ROBERTS

"Toby" plays a fast and pretty game at the guard position; always full of fight and pep. It's going to be a worried forward that rubs elbows with Roberts next year and also a lucky one that gets more than a couple of baskets over him during any game. He's going to be a valuable man to the team in their next year's schedule.

SMITH

"Alt" started the season as a back guard and played there until the mid-year term when he was declared ineligible and forced to end his cage career for Bucyrus Hi. It was spectacular to watch him in some of the rumposes, dive into a mess of men, much taller than he, and come out of the fracas with that pill in his possession. Smith was a valuable man, and the team, as well as everyone else, hated to see him leave.

ROBERTS

Although Carl's fame rests chiefly on his ability to capture all the fair sex, he also has garnered a number of laurels in the field of basketball. During Roberts' last two seasons at the guard position he has gained a reputation of being a good floor man in general, with plenty of endurance, accuracy and speed. It's sorrowful to think of but he's a Senior and graduates.

NUSSBAUM

"Ike" was the running mate of "Pup" Smith and helped him complete that pair of forwards which has gained fame all over the state. In "Ike", the opposition had one of the fastest and slickest basketball players in this part of the state, to watch. It's good news to hear that the clever little-forward has been elected captain for next year and we wish him the season's luck next year.

COONEY

"Mike" did his stuff at guard this season and will get a chance to do more of it next year. It was a mighty fast man that ever got that ball off the back-board before "Mike" because that little Irishman was always there. His work during the season highly justified the Coach's selection and in the league games he greatly exceeded the expectations of his admirers.

"Butch" worked in a number of tilts and furnished satisfactory evidence to the effect that he'll be able to produce plenty of points when called upon to hold down a regular corner on the floor outfit. Butch has one more season at being a member of the cage team and should turn out to be another "Smitty."

ABBEY

"Frank" came to us from Middletown with a reputation as a good center. He certainly justified his rep. this past season by playing a whirl-wind of a game. He was always there when needed and because of his ability to shoot and jump fitted out the position at center to perfection. It was his first basketball season at Bucyrus Hi and it's tough to think that it's his last.

SMITH

"Smitty", the captain of this year's successful basketball team, graduates. "Pup" was admired by every basketball fan and is considered the best forward the school has ever produced. The presence of "Smitty" on the floor dampened all hopes of any rival teams because he is an accurate passer, excellent dribbler and a sure shot. The school is proud to turn out such type of basketball player as Smith and we wish him luck in college.

Senior Basketball Team

For the third consecutive year the Class of '24 has won the inter-class basketball championship. There were over twenty men out for the team but only twelve remained until the end of the season.

Captain Lutz was the main scoring machine in almost every game with Rhoades and Harris doing their bit to help pile up the points. Ex-varsity man "Alt" Smith and big "Red" Stuckman were always depended upon to keep the opponent's score down. They both played a "whizz" of a game at guard.

Girls' Basketball

The Girls' Basketball Team has closed the season of 1923-24. The season has been a most enjoyable one and quite successful. Starting with our defeat of Galion and closing with our victory over Norwalk, the unofficial State Champs, this year's team can easily be considered the best which Bucyrus has ever produced.

The squad has played consistently throughout the season and much could be said for the work of individuals. Mabel Klein, twice elected captain, proves that she is the basketball "Star." Her unique way in caging the ball will long be remembered. Margaret Baker is a forward that ranks high as a basket shooter which has often spelled danger to the opponent when under the basket. Evelyn Class and Dorothy Seiser as centers have formed the nucleus of the team, playing with excellent vigor showing fine team work and at times following it up with spectacular playing. Helen Miller as guard has played a steady, dependable game all season and ranks as the strongest guard of B. H. S. The honors of the other guard position fall to two girls, Ruth Moore and Nellie Patton, each having played as regular or sub the entire season. Nellie Patton is captain-elect of next year's team, her aggressiveness in the game and her clean sportsmanship will make her a fitting pilot for the coming season.

Our subs deserve a great deal of credit and are largely responsible for the success of the school team. Verna Korb has many times filled the position as right forward. Dorothy Robertson plays guard with marked ability. Miriam Swartzkopf shows her speed at side-center.

The Team and Subs received Basketball letters.

Senior Champs

For the first time in the annals of girls' athletics in Bucyrus High School, class teams have been organized and a class tournament held.

The night of this event the gym was sectioned off and decorated by the classes with class colors and various types of posters.

The efficient coaching of Miss Peterson, Girls' Physical Instructor, was mainly responsible for the high class of basketball displayed by all the participating teams.

The Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshman classes had two teams each. The Seniors had only enough players for one team and a sub, depending more on strategy than numbers.

The final result was that the Seniors were champs, and that the Freshmen were the holders of the honored and much coveted "Cellar Championship."

Class basketball is a splendid thing. It gives a greater number of girls the opportunity to participate in practically the only sport girls have in B. H. S. than would be possible if only varsity teams were formed. It develops teamwork, promotes good sportsmanship and provides a good time for each and every participant.

Judging from its success this year it will be a permanent institution in girls' athletics in B. H. S.

Track

Six meets loomed before the Bucyrus cinder artists at the beginning of the track season last year. Altho this was the first season the "Red and White" spikes were to bite the dust in a real track meet with out-of-town schools the team did splendidly, winning the sectional meet at Ada, with plenty of points to spare and landing well up in the melee at Columbus, where all the winners of the sectional meets had an argument as to which school in the state was the best in this branch of sports.

Claud Sharer, a track star of Denison, coached the team and developed it to perfection. It was due to his ceaseless efforts that Bucyrus ranked so high in the track world.

Smith and Harris were the chief point-getters in the hurdles, high jump and broad jump, the honors being well divided. It took Kennedy and Nussbaum to put that shot and sail that discus for points. Altho they were light men it was no sign that they couldn't do their stuff.

The dashes were well taken care of by Captain Myers, "Shorty" Sherer and Smith. They could all waddle down that path in such good time that track critics were made to sit up and take notice. Ghist and McMichael could always be counted upon to arrive in the first location in the mile and half mile events. The relay team was made up of Coutts, Meyers, Sherer, Ghist and Harris. To bring in the rest of the points, Harris was left to the javelin and pole vault with Lutz as a running mate in the latter event.

Class Track, 1923

Along with the other championships to the Junior credit last year went track.

In the innerclass meet staged on the athletic field they won with a good margin of points. Harris, Sherer, Kennedy and Bennett were the chief point getters in this meet and did a big share of the work in placing the class of '24 on the top.

Class Baseball, 1923

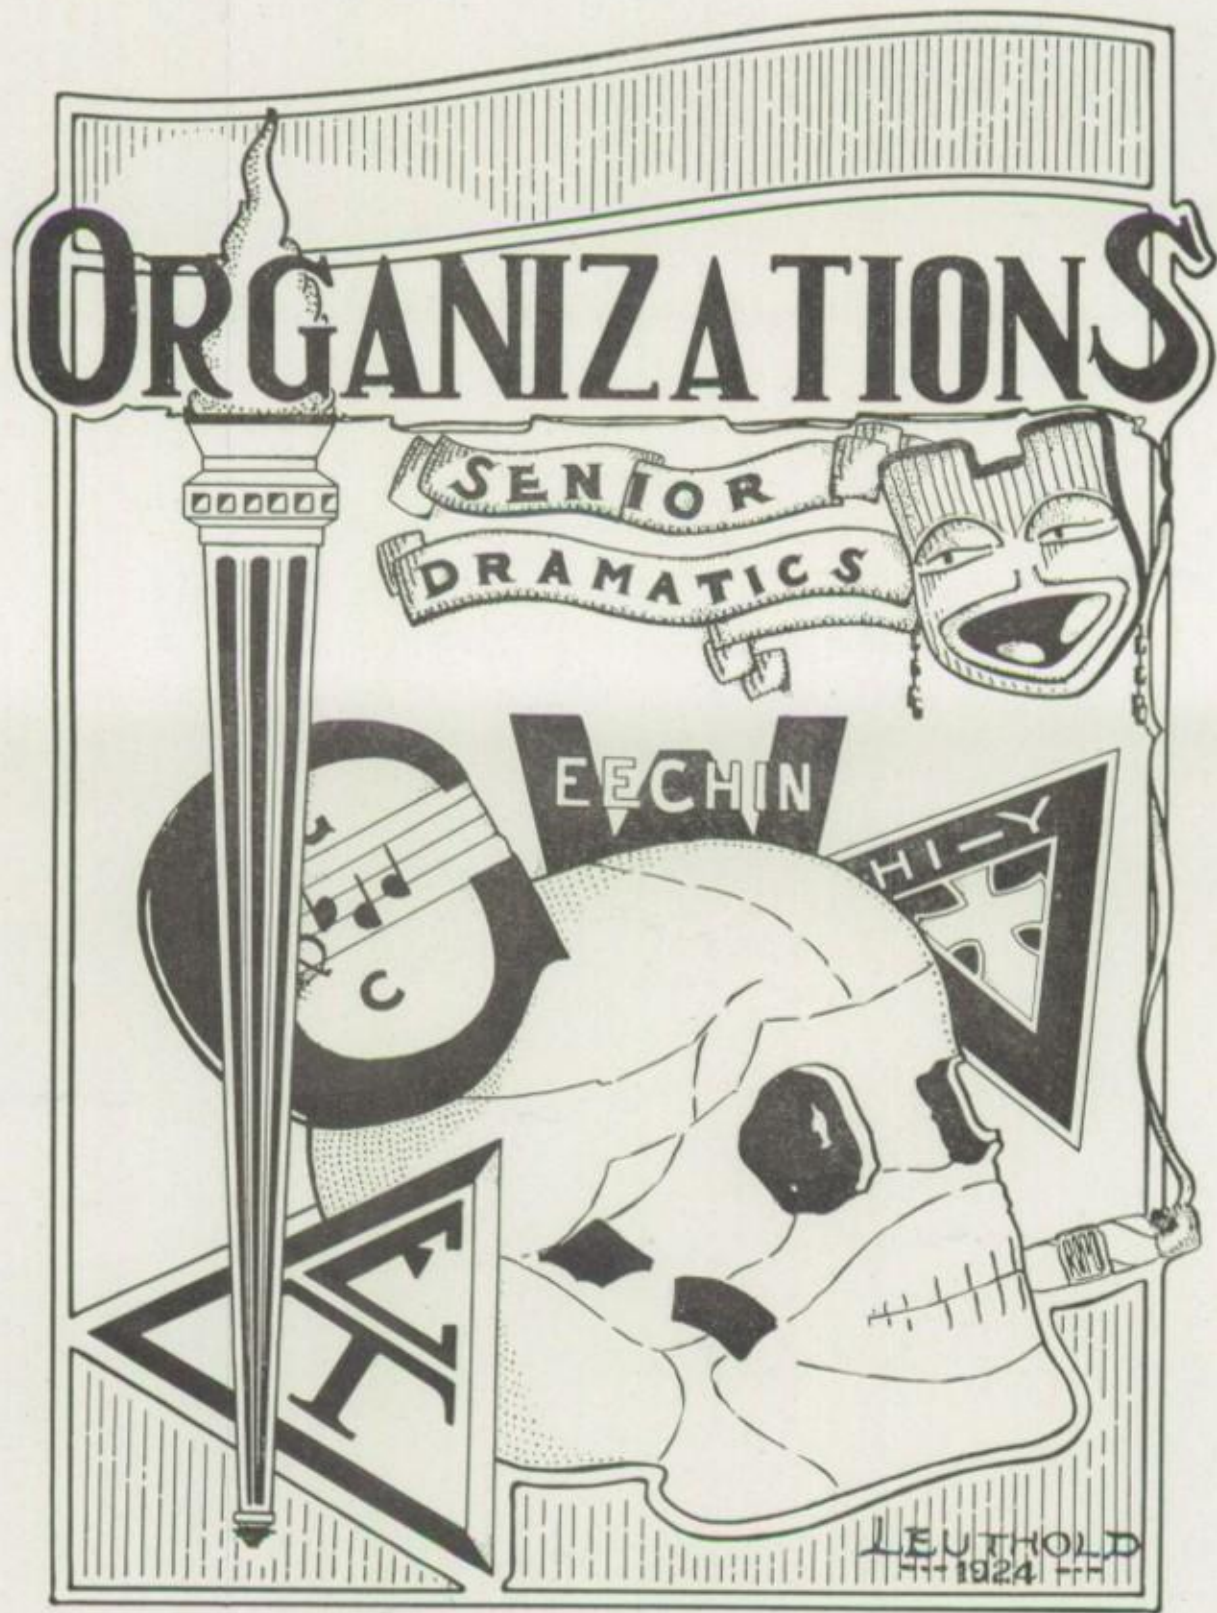

Many hard games were fought on the diamond last year. The most interesting and exciting one of all was the Junior-Senior game which was played to determine the class championship. Things looked blue for the class of '24 up until the final inning when "Pup" Smith knocked a homer with the bases full. This was the deciding hit of the game and the Juniors won 5 to 3.

History of Hi-Y Club, 1923-1924

The Hi-Y Club has just completed another successful season.

Six members graduated with the class of 1923 leaving twelve members in the Club for this year.

A lively year was anticipated and the work for the present year was carefully outlined.

Three new members, Geo. Harris, Bob Brinkman and John Schuler were elected to the Club, who with Frank Abbey, transferred from the Middletown Club, brought the total membership up to sixteen.

Ten interesting talks by various Bucyrus citizens were delivered to the club. These were very beneficial. The following men who gave talks were Mr. Kiess, Prof. Patterson, Coach Yeager, Mr. Cook, Rev. Eaton, Mr. Lewis, Rev. Morlock, Mr. Stoltz and Dr. Carlisle. During February a District convention was held at Galion and seven Bucyrus members attended it.

Four new members were taken in at the close of the season: C. Shafer, F. Berry, E. Norris and J. Kiess.

The last meeting was in the form of a banquet for the graduating members. Dr. Carlisle spoke at this time and the orchestra played several numbers.

The members composing the club were H. Stuckman, Pres.; C. Ghist, Vice Pres.; E. Norton, Sec.-Treas.; Geo Harris, F. Roberts, C. Roberts, R. Brinkman, D. Rogers, C. Allen, L. Sherer, R. Ackerman, W. James, G. Pfeleiderer Frank Abbey, J. Schuler, C. Shafer, F. Berry, E. Norris, and J. Kiess.

The season was declared very successful and much of the credit for this is due to the efforts of Mr. Wood, the Club's adviser.
—EDWIN NORTON.

Weechin Club

The Weechin Club is a new organization, having been organized only this year. The members, numbering about seventy-five, are girls of the Senior and Junior classes. Mabel Klein was chosen President and very capably led us through a successful year. The other officers were: Dorothy Schieber, Vice President; Mary Athey, Secretary-Treasurer; and Ruth Moore, Reporter. We had two faculty advisers, Miss Strickland and Miss Coffin, who helped us during the year.

Meetings were held once a month in the cafeteria. Banquets were served by the Domestic Science girls, after which programs were given. One outside speaker spoke to us at each meeting and several of the girls gave talks each time.

The Dramatic Club

Within recent years dramatic art has become almost a requisite part of the curriculum of High Schools. Altho B. H. S. has not yet added it as an established study, dramatics has taken a prominent position in the activities of the Seniors for the last four years.

The organization presented two plays during the course of the year: "The Arrival of Kitty", given December 13, and "The Lion and the Mouse", given May 2. Both of these were excellent productions which won the commendation of the public.

The casts of characters are as follows:

"Arrival of Kitty"

William Winkler Myron Kennedy
Aunt Jane, his sister Kathryn Heiskell
Jane, his niece June Hoover
Bobbie Baxter Billie Gillam
Benjamin Moore Graden Sobers
Ting, a bell boy Lowell Sherer

Sam, a colored porter Robert Ackerman

The Band

During the past year another organization has made a favorable appearance before the school. The impression they created was very pleasing and since their first appearance on Decoration Day, 1923, they have been in constant demand.

Since then many of the opportunities offered to play publicly were accepted which helped to increase the ability of the band and also the individual members. After the Decoration Day parade the next appearance was for the Elks' Memorial.

The band also contributed its share to the football games on the home field and on several occasions journeyed with the team to other places. Next came the Mardi Gras, where the band made a good impression.

A lasting impression was made at the Elks Lodge, and a constant demand is made by the Elks for return engagements.

On April the eleventh the band journeyed to Lima where an engagement had been made previously to play on that day for the State Rotarian Convention. The band made a fine exhibit playing and competing with several other boys' bands. At the luncheon several selections were played and after several encores the band marched to the leading hotels.

During the winter months except for the concert at Lima and at the Elks concerts there was little doing and under the efficient leadership of Mr. Hazen the band is preparing for a concert to be given some time before school closes.

At the present time there are approximately thirty-five active members and several more who are taking lessons from Mr. Hazen but as yet are not far enough advanced to play the music it is now using.

The school dare not hope for too much at this time for the band is yet in its early stages but by co-operation of the members with Mr. Hazen it will, as years pass on, become an honor to Bucyrus High School.

Senior High Girls' Glee Club

In October the Senior High Girls' Glee Club was organized under the supervision of Miss Kantzer, with an enrollment of fifty members. The officers elected were Evelyn Schieber, President; Virginia Dwire, Secretary; Ethel Swank, Treasurer; and Lucy Mae Roelle, Librarian.

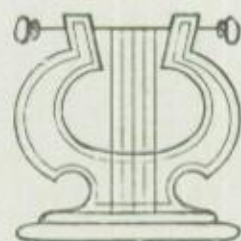

This has been one of the best Glee Clubs Bucyrus High has ever had, both in quality and ability. During the course of the year the club has made many public appearances.

In May a concert was given by the Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs and the High School Chorus.

Much of the credit given to the organization is due to the work of the directress, Miss Kantzer, for her ability and untiring efforts.

—VIRGINIA DWIRE '25.

Boys' Glee Club

A month after the duties of school were renewed, Miss Barbara Kantzer, Musical Supervisor, issued a call for the purpose of organizing a Boys' Glee Club.

About thirty boys responded to the invitation. The officers of the club were elected before the end of the first semester. Those elected were: President, Charles Link; Secretary, John Kiess; Treasurer, Gerald Gaa; Librarian, John Schuler.

The Club has taken part in the High School Assemblies and Debates. There was only one period a week in which the Club met for practice. At the beginning of the second semester, the Glee Club was reduced to twenty-four members. This action was taken in order to have the boys whose voices were better adapted in singing together to prepare for a concert given in the Auditorium in May.

The success of the Club depends greatly on Miss Barbara Kantzer, who proved herself to be a very able and efficient leader in directing the Club. Credit is also due to Miss Frances Zincke, who played the piano for our concerts and programs.

Student Council

In 1919, the Student Council was organized to bring about better co-operation between the Student body and the faculty, and to permit Student participation in the government of the school. It is composed of four Seniors, three Juniors, and two Sophomores. At the beginning of the school year the Sophomore class elects two members and the Junior and Senior classes each elect one new member. In this way there are four new members to take the place of those lost by graduation.

Among the duties of the Student Council are the publication of the Booster Sheet, the choosing of Cheer Leaders, the settlement of disputes arising, the encouraging of school activities and the election of members to the National Honor Society.

The members of this organization for 1923-1924 are:

Miss Coffin—Faculty Adviser
Harlan Stuckman—President
Fred Greenwich—Vice President
Bertha Schaber—Secretary

Elizabeth MacDonald, Gerald Gaa, Dorothy Schieber, Verna Korb, Rhea Lindsey and John Bieber.

—BERTHA SCHABER '24.

Junior High Student Council

The Junior High Student Council has been of more benefit to the pupils and the school this year than ever before.

Each member has felt their responsibility to the student body and have tried to fulfill it. They have made short talks in their home rooms on the different subjects they have taken up and in this way have secured the support of the pupils they represent.

We wish to congratulate them for their past work and wish them a successful future.

The members of this year's council are:

GERALD LUTZ—President
JANET MARTIN—Vice President
LORRAINE MILLER—Treasurer

Hester Stuckman
Mary Darling
Charlton Myers
George Scott
Helen Grant
Janis Rowe

Ralph Perrott
Clarence Ledyard
Esther Carson

Orchestra

For four years, orchestra has been a part of our curriculum. The result of this is a better orchestra, since the members meet every day for a sixty minute period.

The Senior Hi Orchestra consisting of twenty-six members, this year, has had better material to work with than before. The cello, flute, clarinet and French horn instruments necessary for a successful orchestra we have for the first time.

The public has been given an opportunity to appreciate the good work of this organization as the members have played frequently for plays, banquets and operettas. A great deal of credit is due to the work of the competent directress—Miss Barbara Kantzer.

—ERNESTINE DONNELLY '25.

"Swords and Scissors"

The operetta "Swords and Scissors", or "Napoleon Caught Napping", was given in the Auditorium, January 29, by the members of Miss Kantzer's music classes. This very difficult operetta was the only one rendered during the year and was a complete success. Much credit is due to the untiring efforts of Miss Kantzer and the pianist, Ernestine Donnelly. The High School Orchestra gave several selections which were appreciated.

Mr. Todd—"Do you know what a tourniquet is?"

Bob A.—"No, but I know what a mess kit is."

Baer—"What kind of a room has a moist atmosphere?"

Bill Gillam—"An aquarium."

Mi'lls—"How dare you swear before me?"

Ghist—"How did I know you wanted to swear first?"

Lamentations of a Senior

I pressed thy full round mouth to my own.
In ecstasy, I drew the fragrant perfume of thee into me.

My trembling hand about your slender neck.
What a curse.

For I knew thou were empty little pint bottle.

RESPONSIBILITY FILLED WINS DESERVED SUCCESS

The name of J. C. Penney Company has a household meaning in hundreds of thousands of homes which comprise the 475 communities where our DEPARTMENT STORES are located.

The name stands for honorable Store-keeping, Superior Service, needed goods of unfailing quality bought in a way to assure everybody a considerable saving of money. That the Company through our great multiple of DEPARTMENT STORES, has never been found wanting in fulfilling our responsibilities to the public, is shown by our far-reaching growth of the ORGANIZATION during the past twenty-two years.

Freshie—“What are those numbers on the backs of those football men for?”

Edward G.—“The men add them up, divide by two, and the one that gets the answer first runs with the ball.”

Freshie—“Is that why Shorty never made any touchdown?”

Harris—"Were you ever pinched for going too fast?"

Steve—"No, but I've been slapped."

She is stopping at the Mountain Inn,
But great seclusion seeks;
She always dresses in the dark
Because the Mountain peaks.

I gave her many kisses
But still she cried for more,
I could not give her any
For we'd passed the candy store.

Miss Coffin—"That parrot has a rare vocabulary. Was he trained on a ship?"

Miss Beery—"No, Miss Rochester brought him from home."

Red Gearhart—"Are there any feet in school larger than yours?"

Jim Foulke—"Only one. Chuck Allen has to pull his trousers off over his head."

Carl R. preparing English lesson—"Cec, how would you use satiate in a sentence?"

Cec—"My girl said she wasn't hungry, but when I took her to a restaurant I'll say-she-ate."

Minister—"Will you join us in the new missionary movement?"

Tommy B.—"Oh, I'm just crazy to try it. Is it anything like the camel walk?"

Photographer, to Buck S. about to be 'mugged'.—"Do you want a large or small picture?"

Buck—"Why, small, of course."

Photographer—"Then close your mouth."

ALICE CONKLIN

Miss Strickland asked her class to write an essay on London. She was surprised to read the following in one attempt: "The people of London are noted for their stupidity."

Miss Strickland—"Explain yourself."

The Junior replied—"Why, it says in the textbooks that the population of London is very dense."

Spring makes people lazy. The other seasons that people lazy are summer, fall and winter.

Mills—"Give me an example of a collective noun."

Chas. Link—"A vacuum cleaner."

Teacher—"Tommy, why do you spell bank with such a large B?"

Tommy—"Cause Pa said a bank was no good unless it had a large capital."

Steve—"Bill G. is quite a musician, isn't he?"

Helen Jones—"Oh, yes. Even when he was two years old he used to play on the linoleum."

There was a young fellow named Edwin,
Whose versified gift was a riddle.
He had such a time, to balance his rhyme,
That he parted his hair in the middle.

"And how do you like Codfish balls?"
I said to sister Jennie.
She said, "I really couldn't say—
I've never been to any."

A Poem

"May I print a kiss on your lips?" he said
And she nodded her sweet permission;
So he went to press and I rather guess,
He printed a whole edition.
